Negro Prisoners In Panic; Ghost Of Suicide Walks

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., June 30. (By the Associated Press.)—Prisoners here are panicky since the suicide of Robert Cook, who leaped from a third-story window of the workhouse Wednesday after hearing a jury return a verdict of guilty on two murder charges and fixing hanging as the penalty.
An uproar resulted last night in the jail and the guards were aroused when the negroes shrieked that they saw Cook's ghost peering at them from his former cell. The negroes also claimed they saw his ghost walk across the floor of the office and touch the sleeping turnkeys.

JUNIOR "Y" BOYS FOLD TENTS AT MAMMOTH SPRINGS AND RETURN

Junior Y. M. C. A. boys tanking up on ice cream at camp.
The Junior Y campers folded their tents Monday and headed toward Memphis. The boys have had a great outing, which has been made possible by the generosity of several business men who have contributed to meet the general expense. Several business men of the city have made it possible for a number of the boys to attend summer camps which could not have had this privilege without help.
The camp was located 12 miles from Mammoth Spring, Ark. The boys were close to nature and the happy thing about it all is the friendships formed among the group. Many of the boys played and ate with the campers. The boys who awake once more to the noise of the street car will miss the stillness and quietude of the Ozark woods.
R. W. Tapp was camp director, and was assisted by J. W. Morrison, Harry Schrock, Paul Gelsman, Harry D. Schrock, Dr. C. W. Haynes, camp physician; Oscar Goldberg, John Motley, Sam Good and J. H. Wright.

AMERICAN OFFICERS KILL LATIN QUARTER

PARIS, June 30. (Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The famous Latin quarter of Paris, home of the bohemians of the world of art, is for the time being at least, a thing of the past. Killed unwittingly by an invasion of American officers stationed in the capital. So many of the soldier boys have taken up their abode in this section, so that they might get a glimpse of "real life" that the long-time habitués have been forced to withdraw because of lack of room and high prices. The spirit of Bohemia, frightened by the influx from overseas, has spread its wings and drifted away to a more tranquil spot.
It is not unlike the Yankees that has forced the long-haired artist to find his easel and steal slyly away to find himself a new home. Far from that, but even a long-haired artist who, theoretically, can live in a hole in the wall, must have at least some room to turn about in, and moreover his pocketbook is not so long as that of his friends from across the ocean. So the Latin quarter in Americanized quarters, most of them being students at the Sorbonne, where special courses have been arranged for them. Many of the artists who lived there before the war had given up their studios and answered the call of the flag. Consequently there were numerous apartments to be obtained by the Americans. The artist, upon being recently demobilized, came back to the quarter to learn that there was no place for him, at least at a price within his means, for the Americans pay well.
Artists who had remained in the quarter were little less fortunate. They found that their purses would no longer support them in the old style of life. Then, too, they were doubly the victim of the question of a change of the atmosphere so dear to the artist. The tables of an evening were filled with Bohemians at their games and drinks. The backgrounds for large forces of artist combatants. The conversation centered around the brush and the palette. Now every table is surrounded by bulging khaki, the American expert in anything that is shot, and the favorite chair of the painter is occupied by a Yankee captain, a soldier in the South African war and a sailor.
Occasionally an artist pokes his head in at the door timidly and then takes himself off hastily in a flight at the unusual sight. They simply can't room for him there any more.
Summer Diarrhea can be controlled more quickly with GROVES' BABY BOWEL MEDICINE, and it is absolutely harmless. Just as effective for adults as for children. Price 30c.

FILIPINOS COMMAND SUB AND DESTROYER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—For the first time in the history of the United States Navy, an American fleet commander, a submarine, when completed, will make their maiden trip out of here with petty officers and crew composed entirely of Filipinos.
Ninety-seven Filipinos are taking the course at the Mare Island navy yard, here, which will fit them to command the new ships. Others will come until the total complement of 114 Filipinos, including the 29 for the submarine have been assembled.
The destroyer Jose Rial, and the submarine, which will be the first of the Philippines to the United States navy, will be the first of the Philippines to the United States navy. The Filipinos here, many of whom have served in the constabulary service of the islands, are being trained to discipline, a general interest in their work and a willingness and ability to work under the most difficult conditions. Commander E. P. Root, now on duty at the Union Iron Works in San Francisco, with the completion of the Jose Rial, the date of which is set for May 25, after visiting all other naval facilities, will be regular naval academy men at Mare Island, the crew which is to serve under him is being prepared for its work by Capt. Marcus L. Miller, retired, and Lieut. Commander J. T. Alexander, executive officer of the training camp.

BRITISH WAR INSURANCE PAYS OVER SURPLUS

LONDON, June 30.—War insurance, as carried on by the British government, dropped some $35,000,000 net profit into the nation's treasury, according to a report just made public. The chief item of profit was $10,000,000 on the basis of British steamships which survived German submarine warfare. The greatest loss was $5,000,000 on British cargoes which the U-boats sunk. The sum of $7,500,000 was paid as insurance on the lives of officers and men in merchant marine, and $1,750,000 a year is being paid as pensions and allowances to dependents.

PETTICOAT LANE WAKES FROM LONG WAR SLEEP

LONDON, June 30. (Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Petitcoat Lane has awakened from its long sleep, imposed by the war and the signs of an unusually wet winter and with the coming of summer fairly hums with life, trade and dirt.
Petitcoat Lane is more of a district than a street, for there are a number of streets, and each one carries the same crowd markets and the same motley coveys of traders and sightseers. It is within five minutes' walk of some of the most important financial institutions in the world, and on the edge of the East End, where royalty and others have recently discovered there are some of them covered, some of them open to the elements, and all of them mounted on wheels. Here may be found for sale almost everything the purchasing public may desire, anything in fact which might be included in the wardrobe of a second-hand man. The old clothes man occupies the commanding position almost directly opposite the great Liverpool street bar West End shops, but prices and sales are not the same thing in Petticoat Lane. If the seller cannot get his price he is always willing to come down, and if trade happens to be slow he will mount a box and offer his stock to the highest bidder. Then comes out of the wit and humor of the throng, with the auctioneer usually leading in sarcastic sallies.
"Art china," he fearfully and wonderfully made, men's and women's neckwear in all the colors of the rainbow; fried fish fresh from the skillet; pictures, frames and unframed and priced because of their high color; ice cream and shaving powder, with a liberal assortment of hair brushes and suspenders; money belts, Monna ribbons and the insignia of every regiment in the British army. These and a thousand and one other things line the street on each side, their leather-lunged sellers pausing only in their appeals for trade to make the necessary change.
One section of the lane is given over to the man who is there to heal the sick and afflicted. He usually specializes in some particular disease. His appeals are supported by an open bottle of his particular medicine, and for a penny one may sample the remedy and know for himself whether he wants a bottle. And it is surprising how many bottles are sold from the sample, on which the thrifty "doctor" makes more profit than he does on the large amount.
Not far from the lane proper is the "live stock" market as they call it, in "Club row." Here one can buy some of the best dogs that have mysteriously disappeared from the fashionable sections of the city during the previous week.
Sunday morning is the great day in Petticoat Lane and its environs, for while all commodity stores in London are closed on that day, the lane is allowed to operate freely without interference from the police. It serves its purpose in that it affords a cheap, convenient market for the teeming thousands of the East End and gives them a promenade, a little crowded to be sure, but all the more popular in consequence.

OBREGON WILL LEAD ALL MEXICAN LIBERALS SOON

MEXICO CITY, June 30.—Political writers of the capital press persist, in the absence of official announcements, in mentioning the name of Gen. Alvaro Obregon as the candidate to be named by the convention of the liberal constitutionalist party, which they say, will hold a convention in this city in July, after inviting all other political factions in sympathy with their program to participate. Campaign committees for every state capital the republic will be named by the leaders of this party, it is asserted.

NEWSPAPERS FORESEE WORLD READJUSTMENT

LONDON, June 30.—Relief, gratification and hope for a speedy readjustment of the world are voiced in the editorials published by all morning newspapers on the signing of the treaty of peace.
"Present Wilson's telegram to America," says the Chronicle, "struck the right note regarding the treaty."
Several newspapers mingle thanksgiving with warnings that there must be no relaxing of effort to make the league of nations effective. The Daily News, which supports the league, says: "The far east, and the far east, and the far east, elements 'on both sides of the Atlantic' who have been stirring up discord between England and America." The Telegraph does not appear to fear anything in this direction, saying:
"We made this peace in a co-operation and friendship with the American people such as has never hitherto been approached."

DO YOU KNOW—

J. E. Brown has an academy at Blue Mountain, Miss., where a boy is played with, stayed with, eaten with, slept with, watched after and cared for every day, every night, and all the time? He trains a boy for this meat and bread world, and prepares him for college. He disciplines him, instructs him and shows him the two standards of life, and teaches him the answer to each one. In the faculty of Mississippi Heights Academy are men each of whom has had more than a quarter of a century of successful experience in handling and training boys. If you have not and cannot have a personal interview with this man, write him concerning the largest Boys' Training School in the state, and one of the best in the whole South.
